

Hospice Foundation of America Announcement

We are now recruiting the second group of Project Talk Trial hosts!

Local host organizations are invited to bring an engaging community event about advance care planning to your location. Hosts receive a $300 stipend and participants can qualify for up to $65 in gift cards!

The Project Talk Trial is a 5-year randomized controlled research initiative to evaluate the effectiveness of several approaches to promote advance care planning in underserved populations. The Trial is funded by the National Institutes of Health.

Seventy-five communities across the U.S. are being selected to host an event in underserved populations, such as ethnic and racial minority backgrounds, rural communities, or low-income areas.

We hosted our first Project Talk Trial event!

On March 19, Homeland at Home in Harrisburg, PA hosted the first Project Talk event about advance care planning and it was a hit!

“We had a nice crowd,” said Barbara Goll, community educator for Homeland at Home. “They were fully engaged, and we had a lot of fun. Hopefully everyone will follow through and complete an advance directive, and it will be a great experience for everyone.”
